SENTENCED AS A TRAMP. THE COURT IN BOSTON PROMPTLY DIS-

POSES OF ONE CRANK. HARRY L. SPRING SENT TO THE HOUSE OF CORRECTION FOR THREE MONTHS-IIIS

CAREER IN CHICAGO. Boston, Nov. 16.—Harry L. Spring, who was arrested for his suspicious actions in the Ames Building yesterday, was sentenced to the House of Correction to-day for three months, under the tramp law. Chief Inspector Coulter told the facts of the arrest and detailed the conversations he had with the prisoner. His story was practically the same as that related to the court by Spring. The latter

There I saw some of my Chicago friends, and they gave me a little assistance. I re-mained in New-York about three months and came here three weeks ago. Dr. Miner was a friend to me while I was at the Tufts Divinity School. While there I visited his house several times. He knows me very well. I went to the Ames Building because I thought Mr. Ames could help me into business. I boarded here at No. 30 Worcester-st. I am sorry for what I did. Let me ask you, Judge, as a good man if it is not hard upon me? It is as a good man, if it is not hard upon me? It is a very painful thing for me to go through a thing such as this. In not accepting the offer of Inspector Coulter to take a pass and return to New-York, I felt I could get some aid from my friends. When I came here I had some money. Since I came here I have written to my Chicago friends and had ex-I have written to my Chicago friends and had pected to be able to leave for New-York before new. I have everything, as far as ability is concerned, to make a success in life, and my great trouble is that I have been overpersistent for noney, and bored Mr. Ames too much."

Inspector Coulter at this point was allowed to state to the Court that Spring had in his possession when arrested a pass over the New-York boat route from H. M. Whitney.

Spring further said: "In regard to this pass, you are all business men and men at liberty to change your mind. I changed my mind after I received that pass, and, I thought at the time, for the bet-ier."

o Court was inclined to let Spring go free upon kilon that he left here for New-York right to till Inspector Coulter stated that Spring arrested in New-York for bothering the Gould ly, because one of the daughters was marriageable.

Judge Forsaith—Were you brought into court in New-York about this Gould matter?

Prisoner—Yes. Your Honor, for a few minutes. The Judge there said he wished me success, and gave me the freedom of the city.

Clerk Ingalis then took the complaint from the hands of the Judge and read the three months' sentence to Spring. The prisoner made a last plea for a reversal of the sentence, but without avail, and then gave notice that he should appeal to the higher court.

Chicago, Nov. 16.-Harry Loomis Spring, who was arrested in Boston yesterday because of his threatening words and insane actions, contrived to make himself pretty well, and not favorably, known during his brief stay in Chicago. Colonel John Mason Loomis, after whom the young man was named, said to-day:

-"Young Spring is the son of a staff officer of mine in the Civil War. The father was a fine soldier, an efficient officer, and an honest and honorable man. About three years age young spring called at my office and introduced himself. He told me he had been preaching in Southern Illinois with considerable success. But he had become convinced that his education had not been complete enough to justify him in instructing men older than himself, and so had concluded to abandon the promising career of a boy preacher. He wanted me to help him to secure a situation in some business house in Chicago. I did so for the sake of my old friend, but he did not hold it long, aft presently applied again to me for aid. I again gave to him, and again he was set adrift. After this he gained and lost one place after another. Several times I gave him sums ranging from $10 to $30, but at last I grew weary of generosity that did not seem to be appreciated, and closed my purse.

HOURS FOR THE FOOTBALL GAME.

DO NOT INTERFERE WITH DIVINE SERVICE. To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: I notice that a correspondent in your issue of November 14, signing himself "Citizen," and writing from New-Haven, suggests the assignment of the Yale-Harvard football game to Thanksgiving morning, as a means of avoiding the possi-bility of darkness overtaking the contestants, as in the recent Yale-Pennsylvania match, before they have completed their struggles.

While this contingency would, of course, be avoided by the hange of time from afternoon to norning, allow me to suggest, on the other side, aftern of holding divine service in our churches a Thanksgiving Day. It may be considered by the a sure sign that the writer is a fossil of some toric age. Nevertheless, a plea is hereby entured for the continuance of a practice which, sides being a most worthy one in itself, is also joined in the proclamations both of the Presiyear special arrangements were made by the date the football people by appointing the Thanks-giving services at 10:30 a. m. instead of 11 a. m., as had been their habit in previous years. But this may be affirmed, that so long as the National and State authorities continue to summon the God-fearing citizens of the land to assemble on the return of this annual festival in their sanctuaries to offer up special praise to Almighty God for all His benefits—and far distant be the day when such proclamations shall cease to be issued—so long it will remain becoming in us, even on the ground of respect to our chief magistrates, that we devote an hour to such a public exercise of grateful worship on Thanksgiving morning.

Will those good people who manage the college games kindly note the considerations herewith substited? The writer is in full sympathy with all manly sports, when they are kept in due subordination to mental acquisitions and moral obligations. But this word is written in the belief that it voices the convictions of the general Christian public, and as a reminder that there is danger of carrying this athletic craze beyond all rational bunds.

INTERESTING MEETING OF THE SOCIETY OF NAVAL ARCHITECTS AND MARINE EN-GINEERS-ADDRESSES BY OTHER

Architects and Marine Engineers was held yester-day in the club rooms of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, No. 12 West Thirty-first-st. The meeting was called to order at 10:30 a. m. by Clement A. Griscom, of Philadelphia, president of the International Navigation Company. The president, in his address, spoke of the objects of the society and its successful formation. In high spoke of the work of American architects and engineers in increasing the naval power of this country and in forwarding the commercial interests of the United States. At the close of the address the report of the Executive Committee was read. The total membership of the society was announced as 28s. After the election of new mem-bers a Committee on the Nomination of Officers

Charles H. Cramp, president of the William Cramp & Son's Ship and Engine Building Company, was then introduced to read his paper, "Transat-lantic Navigation-The Evolution of the Atlantic Greyhound." The paper, however, was read by the secretary, as Mr. Cramp was suffering from a severe cold. It gave a concise history of the development of ocean steamships in the last twenty years, from the first to cross the Atlantic below eight days, the old City of Brussels, down to the Campania and Lucania, of the present time. He discussed the relation between the size and speed other writers, that "the limit of commercial practicability with regard to the increase of size as an element in the development of speed had been reached." In ending his paper, Mr. Cramp said: ONLY BEGINNING TO FIGHT.

"The work we have in hand is only the beginning It is a pretty fair start, but if they should ask you what the future has in store, you may tell them in the words of Paul Jones on a certain occasion well remembered by Englishmen, that 'We are only beginning to fight."

The paper was discussed informally. The second paper was read by Joseph J. Woodward, Navai Constructor, United States Navy. Its subject was "Determination of the Approximate Dimensions of a Vessel to Fulfil a Given Programme of Require-

At the dinner of the society, held at the Hotel Brunswick last night, covers were laid for 150. The tables were arranged in the shape of a huge borseshoe and the large dining-room was appropriately draped with the American colors. Clement A. Griscom presided. At his right and left were seated ex-Secretary of the Navy Benjamin F. Tracy and William H. Webb. The regular order of tonsts was dispensed with and healths proposed by the president were drunk and informal addresses were made. General T. W. Hyde, president of the Bath Iron Works, responded to the toast "The President of the United States." Ex-Secretary Tracy was then called on to respond to the sentiment, "Our Navy." General Tracy spoke in part as follows:

REMARKS OF GENERAL TRACY.

"The most important enterprise the United States Government ever undertook was the rebuilding of the Navy. Ten years ago not one man in 1,000 could be induced to believe that the United States could build a modern warship. We have now satis-fied the nations of the world that not one of them can produce better ships-better men-of-war-than the United States. No nation in the world has can produce better ships—better men-of-war—than the United States. No nation in the world has three such ships in its navy as the New-York, Columbia or Olympia, in regard to speed and other qualities. Nothing can approach them.

"We have taught the world how to make an armor plate that can beat the gun. Our plate today is the superior of the gun. We have taught the world that the triple screw is as much in advance of the double screw as two screws are in advance of one."

General Tracy, in ending his address, advocated the extension of the policy that had been so ably carried on through the last three Administrations. "Build a good Navy," he said, "and a good merchant murine will necessarily follow."

The ex-Secretary was heartily applauded as he took his seat. Among the other speakers were J. R. Soley, ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy? Colonel E. A. Stevens, president of the Hoboken ferries; J. W. Miller, commander of the New-York Naval Reserve; Clement A. Griscom, Russell W. Davenport, vice-president of the Bethlehem Iron Company; Charles H. Cramp, William H. Webb.

The speeches and talks continued until a late hour. Among the prominent manufacturers and others present were C. H. Loring, ex-Engineer-in-Chief of the Navy; Naval Constructor Fernald, A. Fletcher, of the W. & H. Fletcher Company; Aaron Vanderbilt, F. B. King, of the Marylshol Steel Company; John F. Pankhurst, vice-president and general manager of the Globe Iron Works, Cleveland, Ohio; James T. Boyd, general manager of the Globe Iron Works, Cleveland, Ohio; James T. Boyd, general manager of the Globe Iron Works, Cleveland, Ohio; James T. Boyd, general manager of the Globe Iron Works, Cleveland, Ohio; James T. Boyd, general manager of the Gore and Albert P. QUARRELLING KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

SOME OF THE GENERAL OFFICERS LIKELY TO BE ASKED TO RESIGN-CHARGES OF COLLUSION WITH DEMOCRATS.

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.-It is probable that the trouble between the Hayes and Powderly factions in the Knights of Labor will culminate in one or more of the general officers of the order being asked to resign, but just who the individuals will is not directly stated. It is known that the charges are directed against Mr. Powderly, A. W. other two members of the board. Congressman not concerned. It is said that the Powderly faction holds the upper-hand in the Assembly, and that if a vote should be taken the Hayes element would be defeated. It is believed that the crisis will be reached to-morrow or Saturday.
Bendes the financial charges, it is alleged by the Hayes followers that a member of the Executive Board was recently in collusion with a certain Democratic State Committee. A member of the board stated to-night that the latter charge could be satisfactorily explained.
The Executive Board held a caucus to-night in Mr. Powderly's room in the Windsor Hotel, and the followers of Mr. Hayes met in the latter's "hissing and a by-word" for every Republican in the country. Lucas L. Van Alien spoke for an investigation and then a reorganization, but L. E. Chittenden argued in favor of reorganization without investigation.

tificate of character. Mr. Einstein's plan was the only feasible one.

Henry Grasse spoke for the original resolutions He opposed Mr. Einstein's amendment, because he did not think that there had been a discreet selection of names. He thought that they came from only about one section of the city, and that the lower districts of the city had not been recognized in the make up of the Committee on Reorganization as proposed by him. He assailed Mr. Einstein and others who were at the meeting last night, and who were there for the first time in months and years, for daring to attack the district leaders. "I am willing to be reorganized," he shouted, "but if an injustice is done men will do things which you may now believ impossible." This implied threat was greeted with hisses from all parts of the hall.

A SUBSTITUTE PROPOSED.

A SUBSTITUTE PROPOSED. After several other men had spoken, some for and others against Mr. Einstein's amendment,

Mr. Hall proposed this as a substitute: The names on the list offered by Mr. Einstein, where not on Judge Patterson's list, shall be added thereto, and the committee so named shall investigate the Republical party of this country, and if after such investigation the committee shall deem it necessary, the committee shall recommend a plan of reorganization to the County

Ex-Judge Patterson at first was not going to accept this substitute, but many of his associates on the Executive Committee told him that the chances were that Mr. Einstein's amendment would be adopted, and that this was a good compromise. Finally he consented to allow it to go to a vote. The substitute was carried an immediate reorganization. It was probable that Mr. Einstein's amendment would have been carried if it had reached a vote, and it was a sharp trick on the part of those who were opposed to it to get the substitute before the committee to be acted upon. The general impression was that those who were in favor of a reorganization had really gained a decided victory over the district leaders who are opposing it. The result of the vote means further that the question of reorganization must be fought over again at the next meeting of the County Committee.

ELECTION RETURNS THROWN OUT. PROTEST FROM J. IRVING BURNS, CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY IN THE FIRST WEST-CHESTER COUNTY DISTRICT.

The Board of Supervisors of Westchester County finally decided to throw out the returns from the IId District of Westchester Township yesterday. It is said that 129 ballots were mixed with unvoted ballots during the count, and the Election Board tried to mend the matter by withdrawing 129 ballots at random. The election officials certified that the returns were correct "to the best of ability." This qualification was objected to by Supervisor See, Republican, of Newcastle. Counsellor Wood, who was present for Dr. Banning, the Republican candidate for coroner, read decisions to the board showing that election boards have no right to correct any except clerical errors. The board also voted to send back for correction the returns of the Fourth District of White Plains.

At the afternoon session, the board by viva voce vote rescinded the resolution to send back the Hd man or set of men to obtain undue influence in its councils, and should maintain the right of every Republican to cast his vote and have it counted as cast within the party, as well as at the general polls.

STRONG PROTEST AGAINST THE RETURNS. The Board of County Canvassers resumed its slow work yesterday. Colonel George B. McClellan president of the Board of Aldermen, is chairman. The board began its work yesterday morning on the returns from the IIId Assembly District, and continued until midnight. The board will get to work again this morning at 9 o'clock, and will continue to hold night sessions until its task

Ex-Assemblyman Alfred R. Conkling and Charles H. Murray were present all day to protest against the returns from the HIId Assembly District, where Timothy "Dry Dollar" Sullivan carried on his shameless campaign against law. Mr. Conkling filed a protest against the returns from this district, calling attention to the unofficial returns, which showed that there were 257 votes for May-Assembly District. The official return gives Maynard 375 votes from that district. Mr. Conkling also said that he had evidence to show that more than 160 election inspectors were guilty of faisifying the returns.

Mr. Murray filed a protest against the returns from the entire IIId Assembly District on the following grounds: (L) Alleged electors were falsely registered in the elec-

TROUBLE ON THE SOUTHERN BORDER.

UNITED STATES TROOPS ORDERED OUT-THE MEXICAN REBEIS ENCAMPED IN THE FOOT-HILLS OF THE SIERRA MADRAS.

Deming, N. M., Nov. 16 - Couriers just up from the scene of the Mexican revolution, report that the rebels have entered the Mormon colonies of Diaz. Chihuahua and Pacheco, and have taken horses, arms and supplies, but have offered no bodily harm to the colonists. The rebels are now encamped in the foothills of the Sierra Madras, waiting the approach of the Mexican troops, who will reach the scene about next Tuesday. The refugees who have crossed into the United States for protection re-port that the rebels number about 300, and are led by Santa Ana Perez. A large number of Temochian Indians and discontented Mexicans have joined the movement. Mexican officials say the rebels will be dispersed and captured as soon as troops arrive, hold out for several weeks.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 16.-Information from the refugees now coming in from Palomas is to the effect that a small detachment of the Mexican revolutionists remain there, while another small detachment has taken possession of Ascension. The main body is now supposed to be at Corralitos. Refugees say the road for 100 miles south is in possession of the releis, giving them com-plete knowledge of the approach of the Federal troops, against whom they are now carrying on a guerrilla warfare.

General Neri is the leader of the revolutionary forces in the State of Guerrero, further south, and has under his command about 12,000 men, though they are poorly equipped. Official organs of though they are poorly equipped. Official organs of the revolutionists published along the horder say that the rebels will soon begin operations on the southern border on a larger scale than last year. These concerted outbreaks all over the country These concerted outbreaks all over the country are expected to lead to a general uprising in a short time. The several proclamations issued by the revolutionary leaders are to the effect that foreigners are rapidly obtaining possession of all the lands in the republic, and that in the end their country will be lost to tnem, and that President Diaz is a dictator, tramples on the guarantees of the ceretitution and is enriching himself and his minions at the expense of his countrymen.

It is believed here that the border trouble is due to a band of marauders, who will scatter upon the approach of troops. Precautions are being taken at Juarz, across the line from this city, to guard against surprise, should the Mexicans attempt to attack the city or the Mexican Central Railroad.

Denyer, Nov. 16.—General McCook, commanding the Department of Colorado, has ordered all his forces to proceed to the scene of frouble on the Southern border.

"In all events," said General McCook, "they will be instructed to guard American interests and prevent any violation of the Neutrality laws. As to the extent of the trouble, I have received a dispatch from Colored Bliss, Assistant Adjutant-General of the Department of Colorado, who is at Fort Bayard, which states that over 100 Mexican revolutionists have taken Palomas, and they are taking horses and arms from American citizens. Aid has been asked by these Americans to protect their interests on this side of the line. The appeal to Colone Bliss was signed by W. D. Duke, manager of the Hagen & Hurst cattle ranch. A SQUABBLE IN THE LEAGUE.

THE BASEBALL CONVENTION WORKED UP OVER THE GATE-RECEIPTS QUESTION.

ELEVEN CLUBS VOIE DOWN PHILADELPHIA-THE QUARER CITY MEN MAKE A VIGOR-OUS PROTEST AGAINST THE ADVERSE ACTION.

The controversy over the Philadelphia gate receipt questien has proved to be the one bone of contention in the convention of the National Basebail League, held at the Fifth Avenue Hatel. The club owners expected to finish up their work yesterday, but the Pailadelphia delegation made such a determined light for their rights that the convention will not be over until to night. As in recent football deals, the Philadelphians are "thrown down" and trampled upon also in obsectall. But the Philadelphia club owners do not propose to submit as quietly as did the University of Pennsylvania in football, and serious chepilications may at an next season in consequence.

The club-owners' first work yesterday was to appoint

The club owners' first work yesterday was to appoint a "Playing Rules" Committee, composed of John T. Brush, C. Von der Ahe and A. J. Reach. As two, if not all three, men are opposed to the scientific bunt hit, that play is likely to be turned out, and a premium on singging substituted. Reformatory players are also likely to suffer materially at the hands of this committee.

The squabble over the Philadelphia gate receipts lasted all day, and John I. Rogers, C. H. Byrne and C. Von der Ahe talked until the waiting delegation outside and some of them inside fairly wept in vexation. As cleven clobs, however, were opposed to one, the little fish had to suffer as a matter of course, and the Quaker City delegation was snowed under by a vote of 11 to 1. This is an unusual proceeding for the League, for most of their votes are unantmous. Philadelphia is allowed to retain the money withheid from other clubs last season, but it is called upon to divide its receipts as 50-cent basis next season, the same as other clubs.

MR. ROGERS SAYS IT IS OUTRAGEOUS. MR. ROGERS SAYS IT IS OUTRAGEOUS.

MR. ROGERS SAYS IT IS OUTRAGEOUS.

John I. Rogers, the spokesman for the Philadelphia club, characterized the action of the convention as outrageous and unprecedented. "We charged 50 cents in Philadelphia," said he, "and we found it a failure. If we had stuck to that admission our club would have been hankrupt. Our receipts were greatly augmented by reducing the price of admission, and all the clubs respect the benefit with us. The League gave us permission to do just what we did at that meeting at Indianapolis, and now the League repudiates it. Secretary Young's minutes of the meeting will show this. It is all right to pass a rule, but it will be another matter for them to enforce it.

Palladelphia's policy will be the same as that of last acason. When other clubs refuse to actile with them they will withhold the receipts when those clubs visit Philadelphia, and let the clubs go to law about it, as Philadelphia invited the others to do yesterday regarding last season's receipts. Mr. Rogers was particularly severe in his denunciation of John T. Brush, painting the Cincinnati magnate in anything but pleasant or complimetary colors. FORM OF THE RESOLUTION

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16 Special: To-day was per-fectly adapted to put a team on its mettle. The air was crisp and cold, and the 'varsity took advantage of the favorable conditions for a sharp practice of an hour with a short rost. Great secreey is enforced upon the players, and the coachers are keeping the work of the cleven as quiet as possible. Little can be learned of the real condi-tion of the men. Things seem to point to the fact that the practice is improving but has not reached a point where it need once any great amount of confidence. The question of quarterizack is still a trouble-some one. Fairchild has improved considerably since he was transferred to the second, and to-day he and Reale each had a chance on the first. The two are likely to be kept in ignorance of the final choice until a day or two before the Springheld gone. Captain Waters could play only a portion of the first half to-day, owing to the old toouble with his leg, and Acton is daily losing practice on account of his lame back. Gray and Gonterman did good rushing to-day. Johnson, who has been playing tackle all the year, was tried at halfback on the second, and did good, effective work. Blanchard and Stevenson alternated at end, and Wilson, who took Actor's place, played creditably. Machine was back in his old position. There are now a good array of coachers to look after the interests of the eleven. They are Stewart, the head couch; Deland, Porter, '88; Lake
